- A report on the Noroona Dive was given by Andy, since he did more types of diving than the rest of us that weekend. He ~~was~~ was pleased with the turn up, on unfortunate part was lack of boats and planning of crews. The sand skiving was a good venue for the locals, even encouraging local participation too but he ended up in hospital.

On the Sunday the seas were good, reasonable visibility which gradually decreased after Hawks stirred the seals off the rocks. On the Mon. Ben had a hangover, and those that got out did not have a good dive due to bad visio & seas. The Noroona Police commented that we were a mad bunch.

- With respect to the Photographic Day only one enquiry was made
