

Nui Chung Proposed Cultural and Historical Site

Alternative site name(s)

None

Province(s)

Nghe An

Status

Proposed

Management board established

Unknown

Latitude

18°42'N

Longitude

105°30'E

Bio-unit

05c - North Annam

Conservation status

The current status of Nui Chung is unclear. The establishment of a cultural and historical site at Nui Chung was approved in 1989, presumably by either the Ministry of Culture and Information or Nghe An Provincial People's Committee (MARD 1997). Subsequently, the 2010 list proposed including Nui Chung within the Special-use Forests network as a 600 ha cultural and historical site (FPD 1998).

village in Kim Lien commune, Nam Dan district. The site, consequently, has high cultural, historical and tourism values, and receives tens of thousands of domestic tourists annually.

Related projects

No information.

Literature sources

None.

Topography and hydrology

No information.

Biodiversity value

The vegetation at the site is dominated by plantation forest (Vu Van Dung pers. comm.).

Conservation issues

No information.

Other documented values

Nui Chung proposed cultural and historical site protects the landscape around Ho Chi Minh's native