

1.1 Bibliography

This listing does not generally include descriptions of cave areas, but focuses upon photography and postcards along with some historical works that elucidate the story behind the photographs. For a history of cave science, see Shaw (1979). Cato (1979) and Davis & Stanbury (1985) are cited throughout the text, and are also useful for background on the history of photography in Australia. Barrie (2002), Long (1995) and Frost (1991) are also extremely valuable as general references on photographs and photography. David Cook's (1986) book is a mine of information on Australian postcards and their publishers.
