

Hi Mike

Here are two more series of Kodak back cards for you. They are drawn from my own obsessive collection of Australian Caves Postcards.

I also have:

A number that are clearly personal photos

A wonderful series of 15 cards – some of the finest photography of all – but have handwritten titles with occasional comments on the back (Sept 1935) and are clearly personal again.

Occasional cards from the top quality professional series of James H.A. MacDougall

A series from Ford Studios of Bunbury on either Harrington's Empire back or Kodak backs

A single card with oval framed photo and title on negative

Let me know if you want details of any of the above.

In the meantime:

1. A series of unknown origin but appears to focus on the caves. They have a diverse range of backs but many have Kodak

There is also a series with either a blank back or a rubber-stamped 'Post Card' but evidently commercial with the title printed on the negative (unknown photographer and publisher). The rubber stamp is identical with that above.
